The Story

Dr. Peyton Westlake, a brilliant scientist, conducting research in his lab, had just developed a synthetic replacement for human skin. While testing his discovery, he was payed a surprise visit by a foul underworld figure known as Durant, with some of his associates. They had come to search for an incriminating memo Westlake didn't even know he had. After ransacking Peyton's apartment and lab, Durant and his thugs did away with Peyton's assistant, shoved Peyton into a vat of burning chemicals, and made the whole thing look like an accidental explosion.

Thrown into the bay by the blast, Peyton miraculously survived. He ended at a local hospital, identified only as a severely burned transient. Certain nerves were surgically severed to prevent him from feeling the unbearable pain of his burns.

But Peyton had another kind of pain. His life had been cruelly destroyed. With no more life and no more identity — not even a face — Peyton burst from the hospital to madly roam the streets and alleyways, an unknown and disfigured man — DARKMAN.

As a side-effect of the surgery that took away his physical pain, DARKMAN found himself suffering from uncontrollable fits of emotional rage. Surges of adrenalin, flowing unchecked through his body, gave him almost superhuman strength.

As the memories of what had happened to him began flooding back, DARKMAN devised a plan to meticulously recreate his laboratory in an abandoned warehouse, and reconstruct his own face from the artificial skin he had developed. By doing this, DARKMAN would surely be able to find the woman he'd lost, and, above all, seek revenge.

In fact, DARKMAN has found that he can not only recreate his own face, but he can create whatever face he chooses. And this will help him seek his revenge. He may even give himself the face of Durant!

One obstacle stands in DARKMAN's way — time. The skin he has created artificially is sensitive to light, and will disintegrate after only 90 minutes of exposure. He must keep on trying — whatever it takes.

Once he had a normal life, a beautiful girlfriend and a brilliant career. Then he was brutally attacked by merciless criminals — his face and body burned beyond recognition. Now DARKMAN walks the night, searching for the woman he loves. A man who looks like a monster, he hopes to salvage his scorched flesh...and have revenge on those who destroyed his life.

At the beginning of each Photo Stage, an enemy is displayed. You must take photos of him in order to create a mask. (Press the A button to skip the delay.)

Controls

Press the Control Pad up, down, left and right to move the sight and frame your subject. To take a picture, press the A or B button.

Note: Only photographs of the correct villain will count.

Avoid the thug firing at you, as this will cause you to drop your camera and lose a frame of film.

The Photo Stage ends when:

- Your time runs out.
- You run out of film (by taking too many or being shot too much.)

At this point, the number of correct photos is counted. A mask is then created from them.

Depending on how many correct photos you took, the mask may be:

- Excellent
- Good
- Poor

The better the quality of your mask, the more time you will have to get through the following stage. A poor mask means you won't have much time.

Helicopter Stages

Your main objective in these stages is just to get through. This is accomplished by avoiding the trucks, birds and bombs.

Controls

Press the Control Pad up and down to climb up and down the ladder. To pick up an object, press the A or B button.

Pick up coins to gain extra points. Pick up chemicals to gain extra power.
